NORTHERN SECURITIES CASE

Revival of Talk of an Early Decision in Favor of Union Pacific Contention. "

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 13.—A growth of the speculative forces at work in the stock market was again manifest in to-day's dealings, which rose well above yesterday's total and exceeded the figure of last Wednesday, which had made a record on the movement. The market was spotted and irregular throughout. Some of the record to the coders are reactioners and manon the movement. The market was spotted and irregular throughout. Some of the recent leaders were reactionary and manifestly held back by profit-taking. Others which were subjected to this process in the early dealings developed renewed strength late in the day. To-day's market was kept apparently well in hand throughout, and the selling to take profits progressed simultaneously with new buying at other quarters. The wide opening in St. Paul with simultenous sales at 14 and 147-34, and its almost immediate relapse, gave so strong an impression of manipulation that a party of room traders maintained a suspicious stitlude towards the market and put out short lines at all stages of the advance. The sustaining effect of St. Paul's rise was supplemented by the vigorous advance in United States Steel preferred on the confident assumption that the full dividend for the quarter would be paid. There was pressure throughout the forenoon by Reading, Penngylvania, the Pacifics and Atchison, and as these were the leaders in strength and activity yesterday the conclusion was justified that profit-taking was in progress. The Pacifics assumed the leadership later, and this led to a revival of talk of an any facision of the Northern Securities suit in favor of the Northern Securities suit in favor of the Union Pacific contention and of a possible early increased in the dividend rate. The market was well sustained to the last, and the closing was fairly steady.

Bonds were firm. Total syles, par value, 44,350,000. United States 3s declined 1-4 and the new 4s, coupon, 3-5 per cent. on call.

Papers as a Man Not

Wedded.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BUTTE, MONT, July 13.—The announcement that Senator W. A. Clark married his ward, Anna E. La Chappallo, in Frace, three years ago, recalls the fact that Senator Clark has executed a number of deets in the transfer of mining properties and which she single the fact that the senator clark has executed a number of deets in the contract of mining properties and which she single the senator of mining properties and which she is the senator of mining at the mining the last the senator of mining the has been senated in the senator of mining the has been senated in the senator of mining the senator of mining the senator of a grantor to join in deeds, but as also as last April deeds were filled for record in Butte. In which Mrs. Clark did not join. Several deeds prior to that especially declared that Senator Clark why an ummarried man. Details of the Sondor's marriage, known here for some time, differ from those published generally. The father of Miss. La Chappelle was Dr. Peter C. La Chappelle a French-Canadian doctor, who conducted into the was frequently in trouble with the medical sociaty because he practiced medicine without a license. The "doctor' had two pretty daughters. On occasions they appeared in local entertainments, and their beauty and winsome ways were generally commented upon. A brilliant future was predicted for them. "If they could only find the means to study for the stage."

It was during this period that Anna was chosen the Goddoss of Liberty, a local Fourth of July demonstration, Senator Clark was truck with the beauty of the young woman and a money to the stage."

UNITED AFTER

ATLANTIC CITY. July 13.—Richard Paget, a wealthy Scotchman, and his son, Herbert, were reunited here Monday night after a separation of fifteen years, each having thought the other dead.

The old man was overcome by a scenle representation of the Johnstown flood, one of the spectacular productions along the bondwark, and was about to be led from the hall when a younger man pushed his way through the crowd.

"Father," he cried, as he embraced the elderly Scotchman. The recognition was instantaneous on both sides. Together the rounited pair left the place, busily, unraveling the mystery and the Secret that the fifteen years had stored up.

At the time of the real Johnstown flood they had lived in Woodvale, a suburb of Johnstown. The father had invosted largely in real estate there, and the son was employed by the Cambria Iron Company in the capacity of civil engineer and draughtsman.

Their home was carried away by the flood. The father saw the son sink, and himself was carried away, elinging to wreckage. Each was rescued, and each sought in vain for news of the other.

The father went to Sectland, made fortunate investments alid became wealthy. The son went West, afterward traveling in South America.

Recently the old man decided to revisit America, Stopping here for a few days, he decided to witness the Johnstown flood exhibition. The production recalled his horrbibe experience of fifteen years ago so vividiy that he attracted the attention of the audience by an outburst.

The son happened to be in that audience.
